About Social Thinking

The foundation of our work provides interventionists (teachers, speech-language pathologists, therapists, clinicians, parents) and social learners with frameworks, tools, skills, and a shared language for understanding the social world. Our goal is to help people learn explicitly how to engage in social information processing: how to attend, interpret, problem solve, and respond in any situation—the thinking and doing skills that will promote well-being. The practical nature of our teaching and the concrete way we explain social concepts helps engage people in social learning not only about themselves but about others.

Who We Help

The Social Thinking Methodology is designed for individuals ages four through adult with solid language, cognitive, and learning abilities. Our work is for individuals with social emotional learning differences and/or challenges, whether neurotypical or Neurodivergent, and has been adopted into mainstream classrooms and districts around the world.

Who Should Attend?

The Social Thinking Methodology is used by a wide variety of professionals, including speech-language pathologists, special and general education teachers, social workers, counselors, clinical and school psychologists, occupational therapists, behavior specialists, and school administrators, to name a few. It's also used by family members and caregivers across settings.

The Social Thinking Methodology builds:

- social competencies
- social self-awareness
- perspective taking
- self-regulation
- executive functioning
- social skills
- social-emotional understanding
- organizational systems
- reading comprehension of literature
- written expression, and more...

Social Thinking Across the Home and School Day: The ILAUGH Model

ages 5 - young adult

Ryan Hendrix and Kari Zweber Palmer

Discover an array of concepts and strategies that bolster social learning and help students meet socially based educational standards. Explore the ILAUGH Model of Social Cognition to help break down and make sense of the social world. Uncover how differences and/or challenges in social communication, executive functioning, and perspective taking impact written expression, reading comprehension of literature, organizational skills, and working in a group—and learn strategies to support students, clients, and patients in each of the above! Rounding out the day: learn tips for student-driven goal writing and data keeping.

Note: This course is introductory and designed for those who are new to Social Thinking or just want to expand how they teach lessons from the Social Thinking Methodology.

Implementing Social Thinking in Schools: Effective Social-Academic Learning Strategies for All Students | ages 5 - young adult

Kari Zweber Palmer and Ryan Hendrix

The Social Thinking® Methodology and its practical concepts and strategies are being used in schools around the world. Social Thinking was originally developed for individuals with social emotional learning differences. More recently, however, the value of the frameworks, concepts, and strategies is being recognized on a wider scale and adopted as part of social-emotional learning programs for all students. In this course, we will explore how individuals, schools, and systems can implement Social Thinking in a systematic, effective, and sustainable way.

Speakers

Ryan Hendrix, MA, CCC-SLP

Ryan is a Senior Therapist at Social Thinking Stevens Creek in San Jose, California and a private therapist in San Francisco. She trained under, and works directly with, Michelle Garcia Winner and Pamela Crooke. Her diverse clinical experience includes preschool-age children to young adults with varying levels of social-cognitive learning differences/challenges.

Kari Zweber Palmer, MA, CCC-SLP

Kari is a speech-language pathologist/social-cognitive therapist at her private practice in Excelsior, Minnesota. She speaks and trains internationally for Social Thinking and has co-authored the We Thinkers! curricula series. Additionally, Kari consults with school districts on implementing the Social Thinking® Methodology into their programming.
